1. Mr. Flanagan, of the Investigations Subcommittee of the Senate Expenditures Committee, informed me that the Committee planned to publish figures on homosexuals in the Government on an agency-by-agency basis. I informed him that our figures had been supplied to him on a confidential basis; that the Director did not wish to have them published, and that we expected the Committee to live up to its commitment in this matter. Flanagan stated that every other Agency was publishing the figures, and that there seemed to be no reason why CIA's should not be made public. I informed him that we never gave out information of this type, and had cooperated with the Committee on an executive session basis, which we expected to have honored.
